Traditional Japanese Mounting & Framing

A traditional atelier specializing in Hyogu, the art of mounting and restoring Japanese artworks.

With over 120 years of craftsmanship, we create refined works that bring harmony to both traditional and contemporary interiors.

Urawa, Saitama, Japan

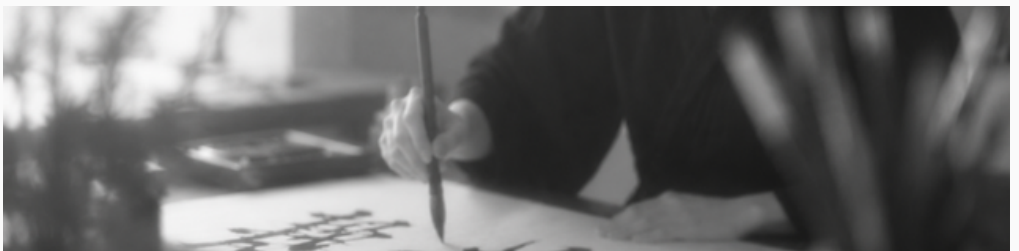

An art form unique to Japan and unlike anything else in the world — works created through the delicate expression of brush, ink, and paper, such as Japanese calligraphy and Nihonga painting.

Using only simple materials — ink, mineral pigments, brushes, and paper or silk — artists devote countless hours in pursuit of beauty, balance, and expression.

The technique of transforming these works into forms that can be beautifully displayed — such as hanging scrolls, folding screens, and framed pieces — is known as Hyogu.

To connect artwork, space, and aesthetic sensibility, hyogu craftsmen carefully consider materials, colors, and composition, crafting each piece by hand with meticulous attention to detail.

KYOBYO (鏡屏)

Edo-crafted Folding Mirror

A foldable mirror that opens 360 degrees, utilizing the traditional “kamitsugai” technique used in folding screens.

When folded, it serves as a hand mirror; when opened, it stands on its own as a full-length mirror.

Crafted from thin yet durable Japanese washi paper and elegant, textured fabric—the same type used for hanging scrolls—this mirror is meticulously handcrafted one by one by Edo-style mounting artisans, with attention to every detail.

Perfect for everyday use, as a gift, or as a souvenir from Japan, this Japanese mirror harmoniously blends tradition and modernity.
